BOOK

OF THE CHRONICLES

OF

His Royal Highness

WILLIAM Duke of Cumberland;

Being an Account of the Rife and Progress of the present Rebellion.

Vive, vale; si quid novisti reclius istis, Candidus imperti: si non, his utere mecum. Hor. Epist. 6. Lib. 1.

By JOHN ANDERSON G.

Printed in the Year, MDCCXLVI.

B

fel, kin 3 ing Bro Carr fend 4 Bric 6 Hol thou And of t Cat 7 that a K flau with and

THE

BOOK of the CHRONICLES of his Royal Highness WILLIAM Duke of Cumberland.

CHAP. I.

ND it came to pass in those Days, that the King of Great-Britain had War with the Kings of Spain and of France.

2 And it was so, that the two Kings took Counsel, and entred into Confedreacy, to dethrone George the King of Britain, and to cut him off som his People:

King of Britain, and to cut him off from his People.

3 And the King of France sent to the King of Spain, saying, as soon as this Letter cometh to you, my well-beloved Brother, send me Charles the Son of James, who is the Cardinal to his Holiness the Pope; for I have an Errand to send him, which will be glorious in our Generation.

fend him, which will be glorious in our Generation.

4 Now James the Cardinal, was the Bastard Son of a Bricklayer, and he knew all the Secrets of the two Kings.

5 And James said unto (harles, go fight for the Romish Holy Religion, and drive out Heresy and Schism out of my Kingdoms, remember always that there is no Faith to be kept with Hereticks.

6 Moreover he said, my Son, be of good Cheer, for his Holiness hath sent thee a Biessing with this Medal, which thou art to wear about thy Neck; also there is the Stamp. And when ye come to my Kingdoms, thou are to strike more of the Medals, and disperse them to our steady Friends of the Catholick Religion.

7 And when the young Man heard all the Toy Foppery that his Father had spoke, he was well pleased to be called a King's Son, and he arose as it were, as a Sheep to the flaughter, and went to the King of France.

8 And the King of France on his Arrival had prepared a small Ship, even in that Ship did the young Man embark, with seven Men who had rebelled against the King's Father, and had sed unto the Land of Spains

9 Now

Now on the fifth Month, even the Month July, the young Man landed on the North-west of Scotland in the Hill

Country, near the Island of Mull.

10 And behold, great Multitudes resorted unto him of Roman Catholicks, Sabbath-Breakers, Curfers of Parents, Blasphemers, Murderers, Thieves, Robbers, banished Men, Persons under Censure of Churches, and Men in Debt's so that their Number was four Thousand Men.

II And in the Month August, on the 15th Day of the Month, it was noised abroad, that several of the Tribes of the Children of the Hill Country had revolted from the Subjection of the King.

12 And it came to pals, that the King sent Cope the chief Captain of his Hoft in Scotland, with an Army of two Thousand five hundred Men,

13 Saying, Turn not aside, either to the right Hand or to the left, from following of that People that dwelleth in the Mountains, who have rebelled against me, untill ye have interly scattered and avenged me of all them that role up against me.

14 But Cope, the Captain of the King's Hoft, his Heart was not right with the Lord, so that before the Army took their Journey, he commanded all the Men of War to leave their Swords in the Garrison of Stirling.

15 Now the young Man that headed the Tribes of the rebellious People, pitched his Camp on the Hill Corryaroch, and he sent Spys to watch throughout all the Mountains.

16 Saying, As foon as Cope the Captain of the Hoft and his Army passeth by, come and let me know thereof.

And Cope departed speedily out of the Land of the Valleys, and came to the Hill Country, and a Mellenger met him and faid, As thy Soul liveth, my Lord, the Rebels are at Corryaroch.

18 So Cope went on vowing that he would give them Battle; but when he came within forty Furlongs of them, he turned aside unto the way that leadeth to Inverness.

19 And when the young Man Charles heard that he had taken the Way of Inverness, he removed towards the South, aying, I am in a strait, for there is no Smith found throughout all the Land of the Mountains to sharpen every Man his Sword, his Ax, his Fork, or his Goad, until we come is it to the Low Country.

20 Thereafter he journeyed with his Men from Place to Place, until they went over the River Tay to the Land of the

Perth,

B

in

fre

th an

to

wa

eri

Cit

he

it

on 200

the

can

you

and

the

ver

Mei

thei

(for

you

tor

12

I the Perth, and he took the Cities of St. Johnston and Dunder; But Cope continued at Inverness.

CHAP. II.

TOW the Inhabitants of the Valleys that feared God, were fore distressed, and they did hide themselves in Caves, and in Thickets, and in Rocks, and in high Places.

2 Saying, Oh! that our Deliverer would come to fave us from the Heathens, who are round about us; nevertheless the Inhabitants of the Vallies became Tributaries unto them, and those that did not pay Tribute, they took as Hollages to the Land of Strangers.

3 Now Cope with his Army journeyed from Inverness towards the Land of Aberdeen.

he

lill

of

ts,

n,

fo

he

of

he

ief

WO

to

he

ave

a-

art

ok

VC

re-

ch,

his

the

net

at

athe

nad

th,

gh-

ery

me

to

th,

4 And behold there went an evil Spirit from the Lord, and entred into the Heart of Archibald, Governor of the great City, even the City Edinburgh.

5 So that he dealt treacherously with his Sovereign, and he covenanted in Writing with the young Man Charles.

6 Saying, Come thou to this I and with thy Men, and when it shall come to pass that I hear that thou art at the Ford on the west of this City, I will meet with thee there,

7 As it were to capitulate for the City. Be strong and of good Courage, for lo I am with thee. Farewel.

8 Now on a Day, the young Man was alone in the Fields in the Land of Perth, contemplating with himself, and there came a Messenger unto him, with a Letter, and when the young Man read the Letter, he rejoiced.

9 So he gathered together his Captains, and his Officers, and commanded them to be ready against the Morrow.

10 And on the Morrow he led forth the People through the Land of Perth, and journeyed them from Day to Day, until they came to the Ford which is called Sclateford unto this very Day.

11 Then Archibald the Governor, who had entangled the Men of the City, to put on Weapons of War in defence of their Rights,

12 Gathered together Men according to his own Heart (for he was very subtile) and said, Ye that know the Times, is it not better to deliver up the City by Capitulation to the young Man, before there arise too much Contempt and Wrath, for we may be put to the worfe, and our City destroyed, and of the Inhabitants made a Spoil.

1350

13 So they made a Decree, and commanded all Men to lay down their Weapons of War, and went in a Chafiot to the Ford, and communed with the Rebellious People, requiring a Band of Men, for they would deliver up the City without Stroke of Sword, and they took the Men even to the Gates.

14 Now the Rebellious People were in a Strait before they got the City; yea, they had not all Weapons of War, howbeit they seized two thousand Stand of Arms, Colours, and Drums, belonging to the City, not depositated in the Castle.

15 In those Days it came to pass, that Cope the Captain of the King's Hoft, embarked his Men of War in Ships, in the Land of Aberdeen, when he heard that the City of Edinburgh had given up themselves to the Hands of the Rebels, and he landed at Dumbar, not far from the Lands of Breston, and he pitched his Camp there.

16 And he did cast a Trench about the Camp, and he vowed a Vow, faying, If the Lord will deliver this People and Gity into my Hand, then I will give my Army two Hours to take the Spoil.

17 Howbeit, God had a controverfy with Cope and his Army, for they had finned greatly at Inverness in destroying the standing Corn and Barley which was in the Ear, even to the number of eighteen Chalder.

18 And it was so, that the young Man heard all that Cope had done, and that he encamped in the East, so that he gathered his Army together, even a great Multitude to Battle.

19 Now Cope, the Captain of the Hoft, beguiled his Army, and fled to Berwick, as ye enter into the Land of England.

20 And the Inhabitants of the Mountains smote the King's Army with the Sword; for they had no Power to flee, for their Hearts melted as Water, and they were furrounded.

21 And when they had made an end of flaying, and when the King's Army had almost all fallen on the edge of the Sword, what remained they took alive, and brought to the City, with the Baggage, Artillery and wounded Men.

22 And they got of Spoil twenty Talents of Silver, besides

Gold and rich Raiment.

23 And when Tidings thereof came to the Priests, they rent their Clothes, and the People that feated God, put Dust on their Heads. Now the Number that was flain that Day is not yet known, for the People of the Mountains hid their Dead in Pits, and in Holes of the Earth,

34 But

liec

Fath

2

Kin

he

mig

by 2

the

he f

had

3 1

for

ther

Wo

he 1

Frui

his-

Hea

Ross

then

a ha

Loti

lifte

com

safet

ple

the

requ

who

IC

II

8

24 But Gardner the chief Captain of the King's Horse lied of his Wounds, and was buried in the Sepulchre of his fathers.

ay

he

ng

ut

es.

ey

W-rs,

of

ne

gh

ne

id

V-

nd

to

r-

g

0

11

6

1-

73

's

T

n

1,

h

:5

y

ft

30

d

3

25 And the Lord gave the People this Victory over the King's Army, that they might boast and become proud; for he had determined to cut them off from the Earth, that it might be fulfilled which was spoke by gohn the Prophet.

CHAP. III.

A ND it came to pass after this, that the young Man, even Charles, that his Heart was lifted up with Pride by reason of his Success:

2 That he made unto himself two Images, and the Name of the one was Cameron, and the Name of the other Murray, and he fell down both Day and Night before the Images that he had made.

3 And the young Man's heart was not perfect with the Lord; for he did evil in his Sight, after the Abominations of the Heathers.

4 And he had five hundred Concubines, and three hundred Women Singers, the Delights of the Sons of Men.

5 And the young Man had a Vineyard at Holy-rood.house, and he let out the Vineyard every Night; and every one for the Fruit thereof was to bring a thousand Pieces of Silver

Fruit thereof was to bring a thousand Pieces of Silver.

6 And he gave to the Women that tasted of the Fruit of his Vineyard, a white Rose, to wear as a Banner upon their Heads, to distinguish them from all others.

7 And is not this known throughout all the Land of Lothian?

8 And all the Women that wear the Banner of the white Rose, brought Gold and Silver in abundance; so that some of them gave him a Talent and a half of Gold, and a Talent and a half of Silver, and he gave them his precious Stones.

9 And the young Man made Gold and Silver in the Land of Lothian, as scarce as Doves Dung: And his Heart was so lifted up with his Riches, that he besieged the Castle, and compassed it about.

10 Now Guest the chief Captain of the Host, had for his safety gone into the strong Hold before the Rebellious People besieged it, and General Presson was Governor.

ir And Presson was a Valiant Man; for when the Men of the Garrison murmured, he went boldly to the Chief Captain, requiring an Order to Fire upon the Enimies of the King, who were repreaching the Men to their Faces.

12 And

my would let no Meat pass to them; for the uncircumcifed en, Highlanders were as a Bear bereaved of her Whelps for Spoil. ", 13 And there went a Captain out of the Camp of the Rebels, named Taylor, and he vowed a Vow, and he went to the young Man Charles, faying, Knowest thou not that the suar Men in the Castle are in Strait for Victuals and Water? 14 And Charles said, if it be so, then he that smiteth the Castle of Edinburgh, and taketh it first, shall be made chief sthe

15 And the Captain answered, Then to Morrow about this Time, it shall be delivered into my Hands, for they are not able to deliver themselves.

16 And after this Taylor, a Captain of the uncircumcifed Highlanders, went with a strong Band of ungodly Men to the House of Livingston on the South, hard by the Garrison.

17 And behold this uncircumcifed Captain disdained and spoke proudly, saying, If the Lord were with Guest the Captain of the Hoft, he would come out of the Garrison and fight us; down but they are fold into our Hands, for their old Store is eaten, and they have no Provision.

18 And it came to pals, that a young Man ventured even to the Walls of the Castle, and told all the sayings of the Rebelli- Hold ous Captain to the Watchmen.

19 Moreover, he told them, that all the Highways were ault guarded, left any Provision should come to them, and that what the Rebellious Highlanders were making merry in the House of for the Livingston, and to he departed.

20 Now the Men of the Castle told the Tidings to the chief Captain, and he commanded that the House of Livingfon should be razed to the Ground, and all the Man of War, should put on their Weapons.

21 And he appointed a Captain with a strong Command, laying, Go ye down by the North of the Garrison, and make a Compass even to Livingston House, and beset the House on both Sides, and let none Escape, who hath despised us in their

22 Now when the Men of War went down, and were seen in the Plain, the Castle fired with their Cannon against the House as Thunder, and their Balls went as showers of Hail.

Rones.

23 So that in a short Time they levelled the House flat with the Ground, and the Men of War put Fire to the House, and the those that escaped the Fire and the Sword, they took Prisomers, and brought to the Garrison.

24 And

25

mite

26

he P 27

out t

hels a

God,

28 not o

29

30

of th

the S

31

hear

and

even

Mon Edin

ofth

to D

High

phre

2

Hear

24 And when they numbered the Prisoners that were taifed en, they found the Rebellious Captain among them, even Tage the 25 And it came to pass, on a Day, that a valiant young Man amed Roberton who was the Son of the Chief Captain of the chard, said, who of you will go with me to the City, and mite these uncircumcised Highlanders of the Hill Country. the 26 Now the Men of the Garrison loved the young Man he People would have gone, yea as one Man.

this 27 Howbeit his Father stilled the People before his Son; not but the young Man said, Pardon I beseech thee my Forwardtels and only grant me a few, that I may smite the Enemies of sed God, and my Lord the King.

28 And I will be their Captain, and in God I truft, that totone Hair of their Head shall fall to the Ground.

to

en,

he zg-

ar,

id,

he

ul_

0.

nd

and 29 So his Father commanded a strong Band of Men, whose dain Heart was as the Heart of the young Man, and they went us; town the City the length of a Furlong.

30 Smiting the uncircumcifed in the Streets, and in the Lanes of the City, even to the Guard-house in the West-bow, so that to the Slaughter was very great; and he returned to the strong ili. Hold, when his Enemies turned their Faces and fled.

31 But the Number of the Dead which was flain at this Afere fault, and the Persons burnt with Fire at Liviston House, with hat what was flain in the Castle-hill and West-port, is not known, of for the Highlanders hid them in Tan-pits.

CHAP. IV.

A ND it came to pass, when the young Man Charles saw that he could not get the strong Hold, and when he heard that George the King had fent a mighty Army against him, ke and that they were within three hundred and twenty Furlongs, on even at the City Berwick.

2 That he departed from the City Edinburgh in the ninth eir Month on the first Day of the Month, and he removed from Edinburgh, and his rebellious Army marched through the midst en of the Land, as you go to Moffat, and they journeyed from Day to Day, until they came to Carlifle, in the Land of England.

3 And it was fo, that the Number of the uncircumcifed th Highlanders, was eight Thousand Men, when they entred the Land of England.

4. Now the rebellious People continued before the City three Days in Villages, expecting the City to be delivered up; but the Men whose Heart was with the God of their Fathers, made a Sally out of the City, and began to smite the Inhabitants of the Mountains, and took part of their Baggage.

5 And when the Rebellious Highlanders saw that the Inhabitants would not surrender, and that their People were smote before them, they had Indignation against the Men of the City, and removed that Night to Brampton, sixty Furlongs East of Carlife.

6 And early next Day, they affembled themselves in a Body, and returned back to besiege the City. Now there was a Man in the Highlanders Camp, whose Name is Perth, and

I

C

h

fr

N

fr

he was a chief Captain, and also a Murderer.

7 For one of his Tenants refuted to obey his Command in rifing against the King, and when he saw he was not regarded, he smote the Man with the Edge of his Sword in the Man's own House, so that he died.

8 Now this Captain swore and blasphemed, saying, As the Lord liveth, if you do not deliver up the City into our Hands, your City shall be burnt with Fire to the Ground, and you and your Wives and Children, shall be smote with the Edge of our Swords, so that not one shall be left to piss against the Wall.

9 And the People within the City feared, when they heard what was said by the Rebellious Captain, so that they agreed to give themselves and the strong Hold, into the Hands of the uncircumcifed by Capitulation.

them, and the Highlanders made them to pay Tribute unto them, and there fell into the Hands of the Rebellious that Day, twenty Pieces of Cannon, fixty Barrels of Powder, and one thousand five hundred Stand of Arms.

a Band of an hundred Men, they departed from Carlifle, and jitched at Penrith; and as they journeyed throughout the Land of England, they made every City to pay Tribute.

12 Now at this Time there was a great Storm upon the Face of the Earth, the Snow being in some Parts Ten Foot deep; and the Severeness of the Season, moved the People of God to offer willingly to the King's Army, Twenty thousand Flannel Waistcoats, to protect them from the Cold, mur greatly, because Wade the chief Captain of the Host was backward in coming with the King's Army to smite the Inhabitants of the Mountains, who had incompassed them.

14 Howbeit in Process of Time, the Murmurings of the People came even to the Kings Ear; and the Lord stirred up (11)

s,

a-

In-

re

of

ur.

30-

is a

nd

lin

re.

the

he

ds,

ou of

all. ard

eed

of

nto

ay,

one

ith

ind

and

he

ep;

to

nel

ur-

vas

In-

the

up

his

his Heart, that he appointed his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, to command his Army, as chief Captain of his Host.

15 And the Fear of God was on all the Inhabitants of the Valleys, when they had heard that the Duke of Cumberland was to hight against the Enemies of the King.

16 And the People of God lifted up their Heart unto the Lord, blessing and praising him, because the Lord had given the Sword unto the King's Son, to execute Vengeance upon the Heathen.

17 And the LORD pitched his Tabernacle in the Heart of William Duke of Cumberland, and he was a mighty and a valiant Captain.

18 And he was more honourable than all the chief Captains of the King's Hoft, for he was of the Seed Royal.

19 Now the Inhabitants of the Mountains, removed from Penrith and came to Kendal, and departed from Kendal and pitched at Presson.

CHAP. V.

A ND it came to pass, that his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland set out from the City London on the ninth Month on the twenty fixth Day of the Month November, and he journeyed the Army towards the Land of Lancaster.

2 And his Army was ten! Thousand Men of War, and his Royal Highness came to Litchfield upon the twenty eight

Day of the Month, and pitched his Camp there.

3 And it was so, that the People throughout all the Land, said one unto another in Songs, Give the King thy Judgement © GOD, and thy Righteousness unto the King's Son.

4 Destroy thou the Heathen in their rage, O GOD, and let them fall by their own Counfels.

5 Cast them out in the Multitude of their Transgressions, for they have rebelled against thee.

6 But let all those that put their Trust in thee rejoice. Amen.

7 Now the Rebellious Highlanders had removed from Preston, and dispersed themselves to Wigan, and removed from Wigan, and pitched at Manchester, and departed from Manchester, and pitched at Maclessield, and they removed from Maclessield and set forward as far as to the Land of Derby.

8 And when his Royal Highness heard Tidings that the Rebellion H shlanders defigned to journey towards North-Wales, (for at their first Journeying, they intended the City London).

wi

ev

th

ia

th

de

m

ta

fr

th

an

th

an

to

th

of

in

no

T

be

th

W

W

hi

in

of 20

ra

L

hi

of

in

th

Rebels, and he was so posted that they could not turn either to the right Hand or to the left.

To And all the Men of War fatigued themselves with great Chearfulness, for they were content to have Battle with the Rebellious.

II Then began it to be accomplished, which was spoke by John the Prophet. He that hath Ears to hear let him hear.

were at Derby, the Lord smote the Hearts of the Heathen who dwelt in the Mountains, that they became as dead Men; so they fled eight Furlongs from the City in the Dark of the Night to a Mountain hard by the City.

13 And the Lord made the Rebellious Highlanders to hear a Noise of Chariots, and a Noise of Horses, even the Noise of a great Host, that they said one to another, Lo, the King's Army is at Hand, and we are all dead, let us slee for our Lives.

14 Now his Royal Highness rose early next Morning, when he heard that the Inhabitants sled, and assembled three Thousand Men upon Horseback, to journey with all speed, in pursuing of the Rebellious.

15 And the Army pursued with such speed, that they journied two hundred and sixty four Furlongs a Day, over Snow and Icc.

16 And all the Inhabitants of the Valleys and in the Cities, and those that did hide themselves for Fear in secret Places, when they heard that the Highlanders sled, even they also followed hard after them.

17 And they smote them by the Hedges and by the Highways in Heaps with the Edge of the Sword, and those that escaped the Edge of the Sword, they took alive, and they put them in strong Holds.

18 And the Lord was with William Duke of Cumberland, and he drove out the Inhabitants of the Mountains, and he imote them from Northamptoun, even until thou goest to Carlife, over against the Land of Scotland.

CHAP. VI.

A ND it came to pass, that the King had proclaimed a Fast throughout all the Land of Britain, and it was kept on the eighteen Day of the Month December.

2 So the People of the Land of Britain, whose Heart was with the LORD, put on Sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them.

3 And the Priests and the Ministers put Dust and Ashes on their Heads, and weeped between the Porch and the Altar,

faying,

d

10

cr

at 16

y

rs

n; he ar

fa

ny

en

u-

ır.

ır-

W

es,

es,

lfo

h-

Cut

id,

he

ar-

aft

on

So

4 Alas! O Lord God, wherefore hast thou at all brought this People who dwelleth in the Mountains, to spoil and destroy us? O Lord, what shall we say, when even our Army was smote before them?

5 And the Kings beyond the Sea hath heard of it, and take Council to environ us round, and cut off our Name from the Earth. Spare thy People we pray thee, and give not thine Heritage to Reproach for thy Name fake.

6 Now the uncircumcifed Highlanders, that were in Cities and in Villages, and throughout the Land, were so pricked in their Hearts at this Day of Humiliation, that they blasphemed and finned against the People of Gop.

7 So that they came to the Congregation of the Godly, and took hold of the Lord's Priests, with their naked Swords in their Hands, and drew them from the Service of the Holy of Holies.

8 And it was so, while the Dwellers in the Mountains was in the Land of England, that Men of evil Spirits, raised another Army of Rebellious Men, to the Number of two Thousand Men, and they possessed themselves of the Country beyond the great River Forth, oppressing the People of the Land.

9 Now there was a Man in the Land of Inverness, who was an upright Man, and one that ensueth Evil, and his Name was Forbes, and he was the Chief Judge in the Land of Scotland.

no And it was known to all the People, that God was with him, and he hindred the Men of that Country from rifing in Rebellion against the King, and he taught them the Ways of Righteousness.

verness, he sent one of his Nobles, even Lord Loudon, to raise an Army of the Inhabitants of the Mountains, who had not rebelled against the King, and whose Heart was with the Lord.

12 Now the Nobleman was faithful in all his Ways, in his out-going and in-coming before the People, and the Heart of the Nobleman was knit with the Heart of the Judge, and in process of Time they gathered together an Army of two thousand Men.

13 And

Duke of Cumberland had left off pursuing, and when he saw that the Rebels would not stand Battle, that he turned aside towards the Town of Carlife.

(

3

V

t

¥

R

le

P

at

ev

VC

la

C

th

m

he

La

the

Co

in

Re

for

Ga

legi

14 And he gathered his Host together, and besieged the City and strong Hold, and incompassed it round about, so that the Inhabitants was in fore Distress, on account of the Rebellious.

fieged the City until a Cap-ful of Grinded Malt was fold for half a Shekel of Silver.

16 And his Royal Highness smote the City, until the Rebellious called over the Wall for Mercy, and to be sent to the Land of Strangers, even America.

17 But he had no Regard to their Requests, and no Pardon to the Rebellious, unless they made themselves obedient to the Law.

18 And on the thirty Day of the Month, even December, the City delivered it felf and strong Hold, into the Hands of the Duke of Cumberland; and the Lord was with him, and he delivered the People out of the Hands of the uncircumsifed Highlanders that spoiled them.

Men who had been Servants to the King his Father, and he commanded them to be put to Death, in fight of all the People.

20 And Duke William got all the Arms, Artislery and Baggage, that the Heathen Highlanders had taken from his Father. And is not this known throughout all the Land of Britain, and how he took his Father's Enemies, even from the Horns of the Altar?

CHAP. VII.

A ND it came to pass, when his Royal Highness was befeiging the City and strong Hold of Cartiste, that the young Man Charles with his uncircumcised Highlanders, fled to the Land of Scotland towards Drumfries.

2 And there was in the Way a River, even the River Esk, which overflows all its Banks, at the Time of Rain, and the Rebellious was in a Strait, for they could not flee this Way or that Way, for the Waters came down from above, and rose in Heaps.

3 Now the Rebellious Highlanders had finned and diffembled about the accurred Thing which they had stoden, for they had wrought Polly in the Land of England, therefore they could not stand before their Enemies, because they were accurled.

4 And they murmured one against another in Strife and Confusion, so that the young Man commanded, laying, Associa as the Soles of your Feet are dipped in the Brim of the Water. ye shall not make any Noise with your Voice, neither shall any Word proceed out of your Mouths, least Wrath be againit us.

5 Howbeit, when they were passing the River Esk, which was three Cubits deep, there arole Strife among it them, fo that they spoke unadvisedly with their Lips, and forgat God, and waited not for his Counfel.

m

W

de

ae

10 he

e.

or

e-

to

on

to

er, of

nd

m.

ten

he

lę.

ag.

Fa-

7

the

be-

the

Hed

sk,

and

Vay

rose

em-

hey

hey ould 6 So that the Waters overthrew them in the midst of the River, and they lank as Lead in a Pool of Water.

7 And when the Waters abated, the Inhabitants of the Valleys, found the Dead Bodies, with the Weapons of War, even a great Number, upon the Banks of the River.

8 Now those that were slain by the Hedges and High Ways, and taken alive throughout the Land of England, with what perished in the River of Esk, is four Thousand Men.

9 And the Inhabitants of the Mountains, erected a Stone at the fide of the River Esk as a Memorial to their Children for ever; and the Stone is called the Stone of Confusion, until this very Day.

10 At this Time his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, left his Army at Cartifle, the Rebellious having fled as Chaff before the Wind, and he went to the City London, unto the King his Father. 11 But before his Royal Highness took his Journey, he commanded thirty Chief Officers, and three hundred Men, which he took at Carlifle, to be carried Captives to the City London. 12 Then was this faying in the Mouths of all the People of the Land, The wicked fly when no Man pursueth; but the Righteous are bold as a Lion.

13 And the Rebellious removed from Drumfries, and came to Biggar, and they went from Biggar, and turned afide to the Road that leadeth to Glasgow, robing and spoiling the Country; for as they did in the Land of England, so did they in the Land of Scotland.

13 And the Inhabitants of the Valleys when they faw the Rebellious Highlanders at their Return, had them in Abhorrence, for their Faces were become black with Wickedness, and there Garments waxen old, yea Numbers were bare footed and bare leged.

14 Alfo

himself in an old Garment, and had put Ashes on his Face. This is the Reward of those that go forth hastily to Strife, for they know not what to do in the End thereof.

ame to the City Glasgow, the Spirit of the Lord came upon a Man named Campbel, and he commanded a Trumpet to be founded, and all the Land of Argile was gathered after him as one Man to Battle.

16 But when the Rebellious Highlanders, heard that Campbel the chief Captain was at Inverary, they turned afide to the way that leadeth to Stirling. Now Lord Loudon and the Judge of the People was yet in Inverness.

and they were fore oppressed by Reason of the Rebellious, that yexed them fore, that their Groanings came before the King.

18 And the Lord stirred up the Heart of the King, that he commanded two of the chief Captains of his Host to go into the Land of Scotland, with a mighty Army, even Ten thouland Men of War.

19 Saying, Fear ye not, nor be ye dismayed, believe in the Lord your God, and so shall ye prosper, and the Lord shall be with you for Good; but God shall render the Wickedness of the Inhabitants of the Hill Country, upon their own heads.

20 Because they have forfaken the Lord God of their Fathers, and rebelled against their Brethren. Be ye strong therefor, and let not your Hands be weak, for your Work shall be rewarded-

next to him in Command was Husk, and the Lord was with the two chief Captains of the King's Army, for they did that which was good and right in his Sight.

Journey, from the Land of England, and came to the City Edinburgh, on the second Day of the Month January, in the Ninteenth Year of the King's Reign.

24 Now the Inhabitants of the Valleys, who had been fore oppressed with the Rebellious Highlanders, gave great Favour to the King's Army, who were come to be their Deliverers.

25 So that they gave to every Man a Horse to ride on, in order to haste them forward in their Journey; also they got Provision by the Way, in so much that they laked nothing.

26 And when they came to the City Edinburgh, all the People shouted with a mighty Voice, and said, God save the King :

Ca do

the

Ki

wi

and

ges No But

the

A

Nan Goo were vant

3

Tre ever

was and 5 Fun,

tain: 6 Life

of th

King; and they rejoiced with the Sound of Trumpets, and with Instruments of Musick.

d

3

y

3

2

e

25

6-

te

c

đ,

at 11-

ne id

he

be

he

a-

e.

rk

nd

th

at

eir

he

ore

ur

in

got

ng.

the

83

27 And those that did not testify their Joy, by lighted Candles in their Windows, the Multitude broke their Windows down to the very Ground.

28 And it was so, that all the rebellious People throughout the Land, when they heard that the King's Host was at Edinburgh, smote their Breasts, and their Heart melted within them and fainted.

29 Howbeit the rebellious Highlanders continued in Villages and Cities on the West of Edinburgh, and towards the North Country; yea they fally'd into the Town of Stirling: But the strong Hold made them soon abandon their Possession.

CHAP. VIII.

A ND it came to pass, upon the thirteenth Day of the Month, that Hawley, the Chief Captain of the Host, commanded the King's Army to remove from the City Edinburgh, and to march a Day's Journey, even to the Town Linkithgow.

2 And there was a Man of the Land of York/bire, whose Name was Thornton, and the Man's Heart was perfect with the God of his Fathers; so that when he heard that his Brethren were oppressed, and made a Spoil, he armed his trained Servants,

3 And those about his House, to the Number of One hundred Men, and he paid them every Day freely out of his own Treasury: Moreover he journeyed his Band of Men wheresoever the King's Army went.

4 And when the King's Army came hard to Linlithgow it was told them by the Way, that the Repellious had a Feast, and was making merry in the Town.

5 Then entered the Devil into Archibald, sirnamed Macfun, the Innkeeper, and he went into his Parlour with the Captains of the rebellious Highlanders, and communed,

6, Saying, Make haste, stay not; for those that seek your Life are at Hand: So they arose and sled that Day for Fear of the King's Army.

7 Now, if the unclean Spirit which was in MacFun had not eried out, the King's Army would have got one thousand Captives; (but their Time was not yet come.)

8 Howbeit they took alive twenty Men; but Murray and Elcho, two chief Captains, fled out of a back Window to the Fields, and escaped; and the King's Army took MacFun also, and put him in Ward; and it was noised abroad that he was to be hung upon a Gibbet fifty Cubits high.

r

0

to

th

N

P

ho

nc

for

Ca

thi

us.

fto

W

Buj

the

2

9 But he changed his Behaviour before them, and feigned himself: Nevertheless they mocked and troubled him to Astonishment and Hissing, before the People of the Land.

10 At this Time, Hawley Chief Captain of the Host, sent Messengers throughout all Argyleshire, who also were gathered after him; and Campbell was their Leader.

11. And the Chief Captain of the Host sent Messengers to Lord Loudoun, and the Judge of the People, who fent four ftrong Bands of Men; and all the Children of the East and of the West were gathered together, and went to him, even a great Multitude.

12 And the whole Army pitched in the Valley of Camilon *, on the West of Falkirk, and the rebellious Highlanders pitched in the Valley, on the West of the Torwood. And God fmote the young Man Charles with the bloody Flux; but it was not unto Death: So he stayed at Bannockburn.

13 Now, on the seventeenth Day of the Month, in the a c Afternoon of that Day, Hawley, the chief Captain of the Hoft, fanc fet the Battle in Array with an Army of valiant Men of War, thei even Thirteen thousand chosen Men.

14 And the young Man that headed the Highland Tribes, as the also set the Battle in Array against him, with an Army as the Good

Sand on the Sea-shore for Multitude.

15 Then Hawley, the chief Captain of the Host, stood upon a rifing Piece of Ground, hard by the King's Army, and faid, Slau Hear me ye mighty Men of Valour, who are going to fight One for our holy Religion, and the free Liberty of our Laws;

16 Ought you not to know, that the Lord God of Britain at th gave the Kingdom, over his People, to King George the First relies

Which was the ancient and chief City of the Picts, whole of W Foundation is to be seen to this Day; near which Place the Battle was fought.

for ever, even to him and to his Sons, by a Covenant of the People, which they have fworn throughout all the Land;

17 Yet Charles the Son of James, who, by the Law, Fiftyseven Years ago, was made a Fugitive, is risen up, and hath rebelled against our Lord the King.

18 And there are gathered unto him vain Men the Children of Belial, and have strengthned themselves, and they think to withstand the Kingdom.

19 True, they are a great Multitude: But there are with them which worship Images of Gold, after the Manner of the Nations of other Lands; and have they not cast out the Priests and Ministers of the Lord, who kept the Charge of holy Things, in Sight of all the People, so that they shall not prosper?

101

p-

nd

he

Tun

he

red

A-

ent

red

to

our of

n a

ımi-

the

20 But as for us, the Lord is our God, and we have not forfaken him: And behold God himself is with us for our Captain, and we rest on him, and in his Name we go against this Multitude; and therefore Man shall not prevail against

21 Then the Battle began with Showers of Balls as Hailders stones, and the Rebellious fell down in Heaps as a tottering God Wall; for Barrel's, Legonier's, Price's, Wolf's, and the Old it it Buff's Battallions, with the Dragoons, did wonderously.

22 Howbeit the King's Army retreated a little; but Husk, the a chief Captain, covered the King's Army with Three thoulost, sand Men; and when the Rebellious saw this, they turned Var, their Backs, and scattered as Sheep upon the Mountains.

23 And the Men of the King's Army gave a Shout; and bes, as the Men of the King's Army shouted, it came to pass, that the God smote the uncircumcifed Highlanders before Hawley and the King's Army, fo that they fled away.

pon 24 And Hawley and his People slew them with a great said, Slaughter; so there fell down of the rebellious Highlanders fight One thousand mighty Men.

25 Thus the rebellious Highlanders were put to the Worfe itain at that Time; and the King's Army prevailed, because they

First relied upon the God of their Fathers, for 26 Moreover the King's Army tarried in the Field of Battle, even until it was dark-Night, and under a violent Storm hose of Wind, Rain, and Hail.

27 And

27 And the chief Captains of the Army agreed, that it was expedient to journey to Linlithgiw that Night, because the Battle was ceased, and the Storm still increased.

28 Likewise there was no Provender, either for Man or Horse in that Country, to sustain them; and they commanded all their Tents to be put on Fire, so that the Rebellious might have no Resuge under their Coverings.

29 Also, for Want of Horse, the King's Army lest seven of their Cannon; but before they came off the Field, they were made useless:

30 And the King's Army brought MacDonald, of the Family of Keppoch, a chief Captain of the Rebellious to the strong Hold of Edinburgh, where he remains to this very Day.

and when the King's Army came to Edinburgh, they caused two Gallowses to be made, and they hanged thereon four for Desertion from the King's Army to the French King; yea, they had combin'd to invade their own native Land: Howbeit, tho' Ten more were sentenced for the said Crime, the King out of his Royal Clemency gave them Pardon.

32 And it was so, that after the King's Army came to Edinburgh, that the Rebels possessed themselves of the Town of Falkirk; and behold, there was a Man of the Rebels who was a chief Captain, and the Man's Name was Glengary.

33 And when he entered the Town, one of the young Man's Highlanders shot him dead to the Ground. Thus did God render the Wickedness of this Man upon his ownHead, for rising up against his Lord.

34 And when Victuals fell scant, the Rebels removed to Stirling, not knowing that God had departed from them: And they invented Devices, and cast a Trench against the Castle, and lay in Ambush ready to take Prey of the People of the Land that was coming to the City; and they were in Multitude like Bees.

35 Howbeit there was in the Garrison a valiant Man named Blackney, and he was Governor of the Strong Hold, and he was filled with the Spirit of Understanding, so that he knew all their cunning Ways; Therefore he commanded, saying of the Mountains, but smite them to the Ground, and let none escape: for it shall not be said unto you, What is this that thou hast done?

t

C

t

F

C

f

tl

tl

R

(21)

37 And Blackney and the Men of the Garrison finote them in Heaps many Days with a great Slaughter, and drove them from their Trenches, so that they left their Dead behind.

Was

the

n or

ided

ight

hey

Fa-

ong

hey

ing;

nd:

1.

o E-

n of

was

ung

did

ead,

d to

m:

the

ople e in

na:

and t he

ded,

ants

that

And

38 Moreover they petitioned the Governor to have them buried; but he answered, he would have Time to see if any came alive: But Perth the chief Captain of the young Man's rebellious Army escaped in his Wounds, into his Bed, and his chief Gunner sted into the Castle for Safety.

CHAP. IX.

A ND it came to pass, while his Royal Highness was at the City Garlisse, that God stirred up the Inhabitants of the City Edinburgh, whose Heart was with the King, that they sent Four Ambassadors to his Royal Highness with Words of Peace,

2 Saying, The Inhabitants of the Mountains that fear not God, hath made our City and Nation as a barren Wilderness, so that Men do not know where to hide themselves; and we have heard of thy Fame beyond the Great Sea, and all that thou didest through the Land of England, even in driving out the Inhabitants of the Mountains, who have rebelled against God, and our Lord the King.

3 We therefore pray thee to do unto us as it shall feem good and right in thine Eyes: For we thy Servants are certainly told, because of the Sins of the rebellious Highlanders, thy royal Father has decreed very grievous Things against us.

4 We beseech thee also to go down unto our Land, and see whether it be altogether according to the Words which are come unto the King thy Father; and if not, thou will know thereof; for it would be hard to destroy the Righteous with the Wicked.

5 Now when William the Duke came to London, to his Father's Palace, he told all the Sayings to his Royal Father: And moreover he faid, Shall not the Judge of all the Land do right, in sparing the Righteous, and punishing the Wicked?

6 And the King sware and said, As the Lord liveth, asfuredly I will have Mercy on the Righteous: Therefore thou down to the Land of Scotland, and be thou a Comthese People in their Distress, and head my Army against the Rebels: And he blessed his Son. So his Royal Highner bowed with his Face to the Earth, and did Reverence unto his Royal Father, and departed from London on the Twenty-

fourth Day of the Month:

7 And his Royal Highness came to the City, even to the great City Edinburgh, on the Thirtieth Day of the Month, early in the Morning; but all the People the Night before had rejoiced with high sounding Musick, upon Thoughts of his Approach, that the Earth rent with the Sound of the Noise.

C

t

h

fi

n

W

ar

01

of

P

of

tai

fir

to lor

for

and

ber

are

wit

Riv

died

that Itro

8 And the Day that his Royal Highness came to the City Edinburgh, was a Day of Fasting and Humiliation, kept by an Ordinance and Statute for ever, to be observed by Posterity.

9 And it was so, that the Priest and Ministers of the Lord kneeled down at the Lord's Altars throughout the Land, saying, We beseech thee, O Lord God of Hosts, to scatter our Enemies that delight in Blood; Insatuate and deseat their Counsels, abate their Pride, and consound their Malice.

are put in Authority under him, with Judgment and Justice, to cut off all such Workers of Iniquity, as turn Religion into Rebellion, and Faith into Faction, that they may never prevail against us, or triumph in the Ruin of thy Church among us. Amen.

all Company that Day; only some Nobles, and the Priests of the Lord, had Admittance for a short Time.

made light of this Day, because they were of the Seed of Be-

lial, for subverting of Government and Religion.

13 And it came to pass on the Morrow, very early in the Morning, that William Duke of Cumberland commanded all the Men of War to put on their Weapons, and he journeyed the Army that Day even to the Town Lithgow.

Waggons (in great Numbers) full of Provision and Military Stores; and the Number of his Army was fourteen Regiments Foot, and two of Horse, besides all the Children of the

'ighlands, even a great Multitude.

nd the Duke of Cumberland left behind, to guard the and High-ways, all the Children of the East, with giments of Horse, and one of Foot, besides several Bands

(23)

Bands of Men that continued in the Strong Hold of the Great City, even the City Edinburgh.

16 And there went with him to Battle three Nobles of the Land, the Earl of Albemarle, Lord Cathcart and Lord Bury, these waited upon him from the Royal Palace, even to the Land of Scotland.

17 Now the rebellious Inhabitants of the Mountains had divided themselves over the Face of the Earth as Locusts: And the young Man that headed their Tribes dwelt privately, lest he should be known; but when he heard that the Army was approaching, he rouzed up himself in Surprise.

18 And the young Man gathered his rebellious Army to fight the Battle: But when he heard it told his Royal Highness was come against him, his Heart was moved, and the Heart of his People, as the Trees of the Wood are moved with the Wind.

e

1,

e

f

e

n

d

r

r

ıt

0,

0

2.

g

n

of

s,

e-

e

e

ıę

h

y

ts

ne

he

th al and flie, for the Hand of God is again? us for Evil. Moreover they took Counsel what to do, and went into the Church of St. Ninians, where they had all their Spoil, with their Powder; and God smote them in the Church with a Flame of Fire, for polluting of his holy Sanctuary.

20 And his Royal Highness went out against the Inhabitants of the Mountains from the Town of Linlithgow, upon the first Day of the Month, even the Month February, and marched his Men of War in Battle Array until thou comest to the Town of Stirling, even One hundred and twelve Furlongs.

21 So the Lord finote the uncircumcifed Highlanders before the Duke of Cumberland, and before the King's Army; and the ungodly Highlanders fled, and William Duke of Cumberland drove them before him, as a Flock of wild Goats are driven.

22 And his Royal Highness, and the People that were with him, pursued them unto Moss-Flanders, through the River Forth, on the Borders of the Hill-co and many died in the River.

23 And the uncircumcifed Highlanders we that they could not recover themselves, for a stroyed before the Lord, and before his Host.

C =24 5 And the Fear of the Lord came upon many of the Rebelilous, so that they delivered themselves up to his Royal Highness, and he waxed greater and greater in Might and in Power, for the Lord was with him, and prospered him whetherfoever he went. And his Royal Highness got all the Rebels Cannon, rand he took many Captives; befides those that delivered themfelves up unto him. Thus did God bring down their brength to the Earth, because they had rewarded the King with Evil for Good, and Hatred for his Love, and had put forth their Hands against such as be at Peace with them: Therefore the Lord smote them, so that they melted away as Snow melteth before the Sun in a vehement hat Day.

26 Now the rest of the Acts of William the Day. how he drove out the Rebellious from the Land, and what was foretold by the Sign of the Blazing Star, and bey not written in the Book of the Prophecy of John the Scribe. tion car, where they had still to the training their what delive mountains it in process or that because THE STATE OF THE S but nour Salties of Bland LOW TO STATE THE services in the services STEPPINE CHILD VIII TO ared an and a large